

Testimony of Teaching and Learning

Mdm. Aslinda Binti Jamil, Senior Lecturer, Faculty of Pharmacy, UniSZA.

It is with great respect and admiration that I write this teaching and learning testimony for Mdm. Aslinda Binti Jamil. As a fellow academician in the Faculty of Pharmacy, I have had the privilege of observing Mdm. Aslinda's unwavering dedication to teaching, her deep commitment to student success, and her consistent efforts to enhance the quality of pharmacy education at UniSZA.

Mdm. Aslinda stands out for her innovative approach to teaching complex clinical and pharmaceutical concepts. She integrates real-world applications, student-centered learning, and reflective practices that encourage critical thinking and professional growth. Her classes are engaging, thoughtfully structured, and always infused with a deep sense of purpose—qualities that resonate strongly with students and colleagues alike.

Beyond the classroom, she is a tireless mentor. Her openness, empathy, and genuine interest in students' personal and academic development create a nurturing environment that helps learners to reach their full potential. Feedback from students consistently highlights her clarity in instruction, responsiveness to student needs, and passion for the pharmacy profession.

Mdm. Aslinda's contributions to Problem-Based Learning (PBL), Objective Structured Clinical Examination (OSCE), curriculum development, interdepartmental collaboration, and the continuous improvement of teaching methodologies further reflect her leadership and commitment to excellence. She exemplifies the highest standards of teaching professionalism.
